Croatia: Former Deputy Minister arrested in investigation involving University of Zagreb

Published on 2 May 2024

And for now...

- Faculty had to return all the money - 526.000 euros - from the EU project on which they bought the yacht
- there hasn't been any consequences regarding the EU project with cars
- the part of the exclusive regarding the 3D scanning of cultural heritage buildings ended in political scandal involving the Prime Minister, Minister of Culture and their vocal efforts to undermine the work of Telegram and the European Public Prosecutor's Office (EPPO) in Zagreb
- dispute between the Government and the EPPO is ongoing
- indictment is expected sometime soon for the total of 30 suspects

Regarding the academia and the University of Zagreb

- there hasn't been any serious (academic) discussion about corruption and crime in academia,
- there wasn't any specific measures installed at the University to prevent cases like this one,
- there wasn't even any hard judgement of the crime on The Faculty of Geodesy and their criminal misuse of funds designated for scientific research
- Croatian academia is burdened and blocked with negative selection, while perspective individuals usually stay silent or leave the country

Thank you for your time!

P.S. The Minister of Culture is still on her duty, fully supported by the Prime minister

P.P.S. Croatian Government is heavily perceived as corrupted
